Le Cabinet Jakubowicz Mallet-Guy & Associés (JMGA) is a law firm with offices in Lyon and Paris covering a wide range of legal areas.

Although our sights are set on the future, we remain rooted in the traditions of the Bar.

As legal professionals, we take care to understand the human dimension in every case that we handle.

We are advisers to businesses and their directors, but also defenders of human rights.

We are an organisation of human size, and we guarantee our clients availability and quality of response.

We have varied training backgrounds which complement each other, and we pool our skills in the field of advisory and dispute resolution.

We are all driven by the same passion for our work and we commit ourselves fully to defending the interests entrusted to us.

High ethical values are our foundation, and excellence is our watchword.

Our values

LISTENING

It is through listening to you that we are able to give you the best advice. In the tasks that you entrust us with, we protect your know-how, your vision, and your values.

Our ambition is not to impose abstract solutions on you, but to build up, with you and for you, solutions appropriate to your own position and your own needs.

To achieve this we always make personal relationships a priority.

INNOVATING

Like you, we put innovation and forethought at the forefront of our plans of action.

Following the example of the work of art by Philippe Cazal which is housed in our offices, the legislation needs to be continuously interpreted, broadening out the field of what is possible.

We reject all preconceived ideas, we strive to be different with a view of the law that is open to society and ongoing freedom of action.

WORKING TOGETHER

The structure of our firm means we can quickly bring all our energy and specialist skill to bear.

Our staff of experienced lawyers is backed up by a network of partners in France and abroad. They are selected for their skills and their experience, and we accept responsibility for the quality of their contributions.

Our areas of practice

For us, advice and defence form two equal halves of a lawyer's job. We combine the two to further your interests at every stage of negotiations, litigation and of arbitration.

We help you with the start-up phase of your business and we support you as it expands. We meet all your company law and commercial law requirements. Our staff provide specialist help with employment law, economic law, tax law and intellectual property law, and will rally to your support if there is a crisis.

We are also there if you need help in organising or defending your personal or family interests, and in managing your family assets. Our firm is renowned for its experience in family law, criminal law, press law and disaster management law.

In addition, we have expertise in the fields of real estate, construction and town planning law which are dealt with by a team of specialists.

Finally, we can provide training to your staff, making our experience and technical knowledge available to them.
